Re: Claim for statutory interest and compensation: invoice INV-1039

Dear Mr Ellery,

Our invoice INV-1039, dated 1 July 2026, for the supply and fitting of hardwood decking and a pergola at 3 Meadow Close, Westbury Green, for your client, was due for payment by 31 July 2026. The invoice remains unpaid.

Our contract with Jordan Ellery trading as Ellery Garden Design was made between two businesses, each acting in the course of business. The Late Payment of Commercial Debts (Interest) Act 1998 therefore entitles us to simple interest on the late payment from the day after it was due, and to a fixed sum as compensation. We now claim both.

Statutory interest. The rate of statutory interest is 8% a year above the Bank of England's official dealing rate (Bank Rate) in force on 30 June 2026, the 30 June or 31 December immediately before interest started to run. That rate was 4.00%, so statutory interest runs at 12.00% a year.

Interest runs from 1 August 2026 to 15 September 2026, 46 days: $£2,350.00 \times 12.00\% \times 46 \div 365 = £35.54$, or £0.77 a day.

Amount claimed.

Item	Amount
Invoice INV-1039, unpaid	£2,350.00
Statutory interest, 46 days at 12.00% a year	£35.54
Fixed-sum compensation (debt of £1,000 or more but less than £10,000)	£70.00
Further reasonable costs of recovery	£45.00
Total now due	£2,500.54

The fixed sum of £70.00 is set by section 5A of the Act for a debt of £1,000 or more but less than £10,000. Our reasonable costs of recovering this debt, a debt recovery agent's fee of £115.00, came to £115.00. As the fixed sum does not meet them, section 5A(2A) of the Act entitles us to the difference of £45.00 as well.

Interest continues to accrue at £0.77 a day from 15 September 2026 until the invoice is paid.

Please pay £2,500.54 by 29 September 2026 to:

- Sort code: 00-00-00
- Account number: 00000000
